Mrs. Ybarbo Is Reunited With Her Son

New Bedford, Mass., April 18 (AP)—Mrs. Wilma Ybarbo, freed from a prison sentence in the slaying of her husband, was reunited today with the son who still thinks she has been ill in a German hospital.

Mrs. Ybarbo, sentenced last December to 20 years in prison by a Frankfurt military court for the shooting of Army Sgt. John Ybarbo of Goliad, Tex., arrived home yesterday to join her six-year-old son, Jimmy.

The 24-year-old mother, whose sentence was reduced to five years by an appeal court, and then vacated by Gen. Lucius D. Clay last Friday, sharply criticized the military criminal investigation division in Germany after her arrival at Westover Air Force Base.

"I want to say the army treated me perfectly, but I also want to say the criminal investigation division was pretty rough and lied from the beginning," she told a reporter.

"When I was arrested," she said, "they took me to the C.I.D. office, and I was told I was going to stay there until I made a statement."

"The man told me 'if you want to go home and see your baby, you must make a statement. You can't go until you do,'"

Mrs. Ybarbo said she made an unworried statement and that she was then taken to her home to get some clothing. She said however, that she was refused permission to see her son.

"In my statement," she said, "I told the C.I.D. man I was sorry I shot my husband. Yet in the courtroom he deliberately quoted me as saying I was not sorry."

"This was perjury—pure and simple."

Gen. Clay, U.S. military governor in Germany, set aside the woman's sentence because of "extenuating circumstances."

After the conference with news men, Mrs. Ybarbo was brought to the New Bedford home of her mother, Mrs. Eunice Bailey, 54, for a reunion with her son.

The boy who last saw his mother January 26 at the army dispensary in Germany where she served 167 days of her sentence greeted her with: "Mommy, Mommy, you're home."

Mrs. Ybarbo gathered the boy into her arms and said: "I'm home, my baby, thank God."

She held him at arm's length and looked at him fondly. "Jimmy, you've lost two teeth," she exclaimed.

The boy then asked: "Where's Daddy? Isn't he coming home?"

Mrs. Ybarbo soberly shook her head.

But Jimmy, who does not know of the shooting of his father and was told his mother was ill in the hospital, appeared undisturbed. "Daddy fell in the water," he said cryptically.

Largest Monthly Increase

New York, April 18 (AP)—New York city's public assistance rolls last month had the largest single monthly increase since December, 1937. Cases rose by 6,441 from 141,462 in February to 147,903 in March. Welfare Commissioner Raymond M. Hilliard reported yesterday. Hilliard said "the rise is clearly attributable to the unemployment situation now prevailing." The December, 1937, caseload increase was 10,000.

Berlin, April 18 (AP)—Are the Russians seeking a diplomatic way to lift the blockade of Berlin and still "save face?"

For several weeks, there have been reports of new Soviet efforts to find a way out of what has become a boomeranging situation.

The Allied counter-blockade has deprived the Soviet occupation zone of Germany and many of the Soviet satellite countries of materials necessary to their economic well-being.

There were reports from authoritative sources in Germany yesterday that Germans of the eastern zones are pressuring the Russians to lift the blockade.

Die Welt, official British army newspaper at Hamburg, said the Germans of the Russian zone want to resume trade with western Germany.

Die Welt said Vladimir Dekanov, Russian Ambassador to Hitler Germany, "has been in Berlin for several days to advise the Soviet Military Administration on these proposals about resuming inter-zonal trade and traffic, which have now reached a decisive stage."

The story was supported in part by Lawrence Wilkinson, economics adviser to Gen. Lucius S. Clay, American Military Governor. He said the Communist-dominated German economic commission of the eastern zone had sent informal communications to German officials in Frankfurt asking a common effort to get trade started again between eastern and western Germany.

City Judge Resigns

Schuler's Action Heard in Court

avenue where it was complained that someone was knocking on windows.

Officers Fitzgerald and Stratton answered and reported to headquarters that the person who had caused the complaint had gone to his home and there was no further disturbance.

The second call was also from 468 Albany avenue, the residence of Frank Sepe, at 1:57 a. m., and it was disclosed that the "some man" was back annoying Sepe and his family.

The same officers were assigned and the trouble began, according to Officer Fitzgerald while Cahill was still in his car, and out in the street near the Cahill residence. The alleged assault against the officers, Fitzgerald said, took place in the street.

Cahill's Resignation
The resignation of Judge Cahill as submitted said:

"Due to my physical condition and other circumstances, I, Marjorie V. Cahill, of 466 Albany avenue, Kingston, N. Y., having been duly elected City Judge of the City of Kingston, N. Y., do hereby resign from the public office of the City of Kingston, N. Y., effective immediately."

It was filed today in the city clerk's office.

The judge's term was scheduled to expire December 31, 1949, and candidates for the office are to be on the ballot in next November's election. He has held the office for several terms.

Major Oscar V. Newkirk, meanwhile, is empowered to appoint a successor for the balance of the year in compliance with provisions of the city charter.

The mayor said today that he is considering an appointment, but has made no decision. Political observers, meanwhile, say the most likely to be considered are Raymond J. Mino, a former Special Judge and Arthur A. Davis, Jr., who now heads the Kingston Housing Authority.

This was the scene on Fifth Avenue, New York, looking down from Rockefeller Center's International Building on the crowd swarming in front and around St. Patrick's Cathedral at the peak of one of the greatest Easter parades in the city's history. Tolman's Daughter Killed by Train Albany, N. Y., April 18 (AP)—Miss Anne Tolman was killed by a freight train in suburban Slingerlands yesterday on her 33rd birthday.

She was the daughter of Dr. Frank L. Tolman, president of the State Civil Service Employees Association.

Coroner Frank C. O'Connor said Miss Tolman was struck while walking along the Delaware & Hudson tracks near her home.

She was walking in the same direction as the Albany-bound freight train which she might not have heard, the coroner said. He withheld a verdict pending further investigation.

Miss Tolman had planned to celebrate her birthday anniversary later in the day with her twin sister, Edith Tolman.

New York Enjoys Best Dressed Day

New York, April 18 (AP)—New York had the biggest and best-dressed fashion parade in its history yesterday.

It was the greatest glittering Easter spectacle yet, the fashion experts and the police who count the crowds agreed.

The weather was crisp and sunshiny as New Yorkers and out-of-towners jammed midtown Fifth Avenue and adjacent streets to see or be seen. Traffic was halted in many places.

The hubbub drove the pigeons from the steps of St. Patrick's Cathedral into treetops along Fifth Avenue.

Fashions appeared more sedate this Easter. The ladies leaned toward Navy blue. Hats were smaller, and generally recognizable as hats. But not the bonnets worn by two girls which looked like baskets of Easter eggs topped by chickens and bunnies.

Some dogs sported hats that were far from conventional; and some pets wore flowers.

Suits were popular with the ladies, and skirts were shorter. Mink was preferred among furs, and orchids among corsages.

Tweed and worsted topcoats predominated among the men.

Top hats were scarce, but black bowlers were seen in numbers. Bowlers regalia gave way to neat outfit for the young try.

Models Showed Away

A half dozen girl models posing for pictures got in the way of worshippers on the cathedral steps, and police shooed them away. Night club entertainers elbowed each other to get in front of television cameras trained on the crowd. Amateur photographers had a field day.

One model wore a hat with a dozen yellow balloons attached. Pinheads soon fixed the balloons. An elderly lady led a black cocker spaniel wearing a red paper hat and clutching a white clay pipe in its mouth.

Two youths wore "man from Mars" helmets. A woman wore a windmill hat and white gauntlets. A pair of 4-year-old boy twins appeared in formal morning dress with derbies, and a man wore a white dinner jacket and top hat.

A parade of Model T's drove along Park Avenue, one of them carrying two occupants with raccoon coats and goggles.

Nine anti-war demonstrators—seven men and two women—passed St. Patrick's Cathedral. They wore large paper hats with slogans. Two were arrested on disorderly conduct charges, after one was dragged off by police as he sat down in the street. A U. S. Marine in uniform tried to pull the hat from another demonstrator, and threw a punch which went wild. Police led the picket away.

Police Lack Clue

New York, April 18 (AP)—Despite intensive work by 50 detectives, police said today they are without a worthwhile clue in the sex slaying of eight-year-old Jack Goldsmith. A 36-year-old former convict, picked up yesterday, was cleared of suspicion in the slaying after questioning. The prisoner, identified only as a resident of Hastings, N. Y., was held for further questioning in a burglary case. The Bronx boy was strangled, and his body was found Friday in an abandoned Bronx amusement park. He had been reported missing by his parents Thursday. Playmates saw him with a strange man. He was buried in Deans, N. J., yesterday.

FATHERS AND SONS
Robert F. Wagner, Jr., son of the senior senator from New York, will seek his father's place when it becomes vacant. This may happen at any time, as the elder Wagner has been in feeble health for a long while, and has talked of resigning.

If young Wagner succeeds, he will not be the first son to follow his father in the Senate. Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, who served for 21 years until his defeat in 1946, took the place of his father of the same name, who was one of the most important senators of his time.

The younger La Follette obtained his place by popular vote. That was not the way that James Donald Cameron of Pennsylvania won the senatorship in 1877. His father, Simon Cameron, senator for 20 years and state boss, decided to retire. He ordered the legislature to elect his son, and the legislature meekly did it. That was the way things were done in those days.

Lately Russell B. Long, son of the famous Huey, has succeeded to his late father's senatorial post, but after an intervening period, unlike La Follette, and Cameron.

Robert F. Wagner, Sr., has been a great figure in the upper house. His son has a difficult mark to shoot at.

GRAND OLD MAN

A vigorous and colorful personality has been removed by the death at 89 of former Governor Chase S. Osborn of Michigan. He was interested in everything from the Great Lakes to Madagascar, on which he wrote a travel book that brought him the honor of being the only member of the Madagascar Academy of Science. Not many years ago he persuaded Michigan to declare its lake boundary waters part of the state, thus increasing its official area by 21,000 square miles and enlarging its share of the sums which Congress occasionally grants to states in proportion to their size.

His political career was stormy. As governor, in 1912 he joined with six other Republican governors to urge Theodore Roosevelt to run for president against President Taft. Roosevelt probably needed no urging, but the plea of the seven governors gave him a good excuse. Later Osborn ran unsuccessfully for governor and for the Senate. In 1928 he was Michigan's candidate for the Republican nomination for vice-president, and in 1940 he backed Franklin Roosevelt against Wendell Willkie.

He had a good time throughout life, and supported many worthy causes. He was without doubt Michigan's grand old man of his generation.

BEWILDERED YOUTH

The modern tendency to allow children complete self-expression has been carried too far, declares one social scientist, Dr. Eli Ginsberg of Columbia University.

Speaking in Chicago before an audience composed of social workers, psychiatrists and psychologists, Dr. Ginsberg declared that children need more guidance from adults, particularly when it comes to choosing a life work. Not underestimating the folly of forcing a child to fill a role found unattainable by the parent, this scientist declared that legitimate pressure could still be exerted to help a young person in planning his future, and with good result.

Much insecurity has been observed among young people who have been allowed too much self-determination. A framework of discipline should be consistently supplied by parent and school, with freedom allowed within its limits. The same principle might be applied before the child approaches the time when his future path must be chosen. Instruction, advice and help should form a background for this choice, without any element of compulsion entering the situation. Young people handled in this way are fitted to make their own decisions.

'These Days'

THE CASE OF JAMES FORRESTAL
Competent, experienced men are not attracted to administrative positions in government not only because the pay is inadequate but because it is too difficult to make a positive contribution. More reputations are ruined in government service than are made. I am not speaking of elected officials, who choose to take the gall of political canvass and partisan criticism; this reference is to men skilled in administration who are willing to devote their time, at great sacrifice, to serve their country.

James Forrestal entered the government service in 1940, when the European war had started and this country was faced with the immediate necessity for preparedness. He served as Under Secretary of Navy, as Secretary of Navy, as Secretary of Defense, during the war and during the trying years after the war. He devoted himself to the utilization of the armed forces and served on the Hoover Commission. I have been told that during these nine years of unbelievably arduous and exacting service, he was never able to take a full vacation.

Forrestal's tenure in office after the war was particularly exasperating. The opponents of unification of the armed forces naturally did everything possible to make that plan fail. This was particularly true of the Air Force, which saw in unification a reduction of its newly earned independence. The law reduced the secretaries of war, navy, and air to subordination to the Secretary of Defense, but the same law permitted these departmental heads to go directly to the head of the Secretary of Defense to the President and Congress. Air Force Secretary Symington did, with the result that unification was shot and administrative discipline among the armed services disappeared.

Another difficulty that faced Forrestal was the law creating the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which made this not a board but a meeting place for a continuing disagreement which he lacked the authority to resolve or end. Finally, General Eisenhower was asked to leave his new and important work at Columbia University to attempt to bring these high military officers to a realization of the fact that they are engaged in the defense of the United States, not the promotion of their particular services.

The honorable motives of no one are questioned. Men disagree and often habits are stronger than reason. No one can guarantee what will win the next war any more than anyone knew in 1939 that the atom bomb would be the weapon at the end of World War 2.

Throughout his administrative career, James Forrestal was fought by New Dealers and their Communist allies. He had been a banker and was therefore looked upon as a reactionary. He foresaw the end of Roosevelt's Yalta policy and therefore was disliked by those in the State Department who made that the cornerstone of national conduct—to our tragic disadvantage. He regarded the Middle East as an American military proposition and tended to favor the Arabs, which got Zionists down on him. He antagonized certain columnists, radio commentators and reporters by plugging leaks in the Defense organizations so that they could no longer get exclusive stories there. His administrative attitudes bought him a parcel of potent enemies.

Forrestal's resignation was accepted on a Thursday. I know absolutely that late on the previous Sunday, he did not know that it would happen. In a word, in the midst of a struggle for unification before Congress and the people, he was let out. He tried to put us good a face on it as possible, appealing for public support for his successor. I saw and spoke to Forrestal on March 17, St. Patrick's Day, and he looked a very tried and sick man. But he delivered a speech which was roundly applauded. Yet the fire was not there.

Jimmy Forrestal, a loyal servant of the American people, an honest, forthright public official who served his country, at a sacrifice and beyond the line of duty, is today a very sick man. He needs the friendship and sympathy and good will of a nation that should remember those who come to her service in the hour of her need. And may a grateful people pray for his full and speedy recovery that he may still be of value to our country. (Copyright, 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

INFANTILE DIARRHOEA

Physicians of today do not encounter the great number of cases of summer diarrhoea of former years. A child who had passed safely through its second summer was considered fortunate by parents and physicians.

However, when children's specialists taught mothers how to feed their children properly, summer diarrhoea almost disappeared. Indeed, it was preventing deaths by proper feeding that is still considered the first and perhaps greatest forward step in lengthening the life span of men and women.

Notwithstanding the great success of saving children's lives by preventing diarrhoea, it is only too true that there are still too many cases of infantile diarrhoea that are not helped despite a carefully selected diet. It was only natural, therefore, that a strong drug be tried to kill the harmful organism or organisms causing the inflammation of the intestine with consequent diarrhoea.

In "Pediatrics," Springfield, Ill., Drs. Elvira Goetsch, Cobley and M. Mulroy report the results of their treatment of infant diarrhoea in a severe epidemic in 1945. These physicians found that in cultures from the lining of the nose and throat, and from the urine, there were certain organisms usually found in the colon (large intestine).

As the usual treatment for infant diarrhoea was not helping these cases, they decided to use the new drug, streptomycin, which is proving effective in killing the organisms causing various diseases. In addition to the streptomycin, the infants were given amigine (amino acids) by mouth.

The use of streptomycin and the food antigen by mouth, together with the treatment used in previous years, effectively shortened the hospital stay, decreased the amounts of fluids injected into the veins, and reduced the death rate. During the eight month period of observation, no deaths occurred that could have been caused by diarrhoea.

Getting Past the Receptionists Is the Problem

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington—A tip-off that the Democrats are definitely planning a special session of Congress this summer was let out of the big other day by Senate majority leader Scott Lucas. He tipped his hand in a recent private conversation with Sen. James Eastland, Mississippi Democrat.

Eastland stumped Lucas in the Senate cloakroom and with a shrug toward the Senate floor, remarked:

"What are the Republicans doing, trying a slow killer to kill public housing and in favor of his own program?"

"Yeah," snorted Lucas, looking both ways to make sure no Republicans were within earshot.

"But they're just cutting their own throats. We're going to get the President's program through."

"We're going to let them go on like they are until we adjourn," he continued. "Then we'll call a special session this summer and come back and pass the President's program. After that, we'll go to the people and tell them the reason we had to call a special session was because the Republicans caused a stir in the United States Senate."

"There isn't a man on the Republican side who has any idea of politics," Lucas added. "It's long as they have men like Wherry (minority leader Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska), they're not going to get anywhere."

The Republicans stand for improved standards of living," he cracked. "But we believe in welfare without regimentation."

He contended that federal aid for housing, health and education "do not depart from the basic principles" of the Constitution. Republicans are already supporting welfare programs in the cities, including slum clearance, free medical service and free education, he pointed out. Federal aid was just an extension of this program, he said.

"Of course, Republicans must support the free-enterprise system," Taft warned. "But we had better take care of those in the lowest income brackets or we will lose the free-enterprise system."

He then invited Senators Bricker, Muncy and Malone to "come down and take a look at our slum conditions."

"If we follow the Mundi-Malone line," he warned, "there won't be any Republican party."

Bricker's Background

Taft got a big hand from his colleagues, after which Bricker broke in sharply.

"I don't want to be placed in the category of someone who is against people," he snapped. "In my life I have given 10 to 15 percent of my income to charity. For several years I have served on the Community Chest. I am as deeply concerned about the common man as anyone else."

Bricker didn't mention, of course, the fact that he is director of the Buckeye State Building and Loan Association, and a part of the real estate and anti-housing lobby. At one time the league's bulletin gleefully boasted how Bricker had obligingly introduced four Senate bills to help in the lobby.

The man who got Bricker his job with Buckeye is his staunch political supporter, John Galbreath, a power among Ohio real estate-financial circles. Ohio politicians sometimes say that Bricker does not even shave in the morning without consulting Galbreath.

Senate colleagues recall that William L. Kaiser, an ex-capitol policeman, once fired two wild shots at Bricker in the Senate lobby. Kaiser claimed he lost money in the building and loan association run by Galbreath and Bricker when attorney general of Ohio.

Note—The business end of the G.O.P. meeting was devoted chiefly to public housing. Taft outlined his program, which included $500 grants to farmers for building outbuildings. At this Wisconsin Senator Joe McCarthy jumped up.

"Would the senator consider an amendment," he asked innocently, "to provide a $500 grant for similar facilities for lady members of the Senate?"

McCarthy referred to the fact that Maine's Margaret Chase Smith has been pressuring for a ladies' room near the Senate chamber ever since she took office.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

April 17, 1929—Ashton Hart, Emil Boessneck, S. D. Scudder, Jr., Arthur C. Connelly, F. W. Helmer, Dr. Myron J. Michael, and C. C. Dumond were named directors of the Rotary Club.

Firemen Fred LaTour and Harold Sanford were selected to attend the state training school in Utica.

Mrs. Walter Burger of Deyo street died.

April 18, 1929—Miss Helen Denise Dwyer of West Chester street, and Gerald A. Kelleher of Pelham Heights, were married.

William J. Falvey, formerly of Whiteport, died in New York where he had been a member of the police force.

Gilbert L. Tronson died in the Benedictine Hospital.

April 17, 1939—A semi-professional group, known as "Town Players," planned to present old-time melodramas in the county.

Mrs. Mary Quatieri died at her home in East Kingston.

April 18, 1939—No opposition developed at a hearing on the proposal to eliminate 10 local grade crossings.

The Freeman thermometer recorded a low temperature of 36 degrees above zero.

To the Bitter End!

The expression "to the bitter end" has an nautical origin. A ship's anchor chain at the point where it was fastened to a vertical timber called the bitt was known as the bitter end. Thus, when the chain has been played out to "the bitter end," there's nothing more that can be done.

When he died, millions of soldiers who never saw him felt a sense of personal grief, as people always do when they lose someone they feel has understood them.

And there were tears in the eyes of millions at home, for whom Ernie had been a clear and honest window to the war and what it year.

Inaccuracy of Statements by House Appropriations Committee Chairman Shows Need for Factual Information

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 18—As long as a few air force enthusiasts say it, there is no danger, but the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee declares that the United States doesn't need naval carriers any more and that they cannot deliver the atom bomb, it becomes important to present certain facts that show how inaccurate such statements can be.

In the first place, the navy can deliver the atom bomb from certain vantage points from a carrier fleet. This has already been officially revealed by the navy.

In the second place, the navy doesn't send out carriers alone but protects them with light cruisers and destroyers equipped with anti-aircraft weapons so effective that in the last war no suicide planes sank a carrier.

In the third place, Representative Cannon says: "With the signing of the Atlantic Treaty, we've got the bases." But who will assure that those bases will remain always in allied hands?

If a Communist government some day infiltrates the Scandinavian countries and seizes the bases, the United States will be lucky to have a big carrier fleet handy to retake and to protect the landing of our troops in attempting to recover those bases. As long as the United States is dependent on the political ups-and-downs of certain countries in Europe, there will be hazards. Conceivably also, as long as the United States has no other way of protecting itself in waters adjacent to the European continent, the American government will be constantly impeded to furnish more and more protection and perhaps more and more economic aid to Commun

Condition Is Unchanged

Oxford, Eng., April 18 (AP)—The condition of John Masefield, British poet laureate, who is seriously ill at a nursing home here, was reported to be "unchanged" this morning. The 70-year-old Masefield is suffering from complications following an attack of influenza.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

D. L. Sutton, the lamp lighter of the gay nineties in Kingston wrote about housing in the old days: "Kingston didn't seem to have any housing shortage then. The rent was from $5 to $10 for four rooms and a house could be built for $1,200. They did not furnish bath room or other improvements like today. You had to furnish heat and carry your own water. Most of the houses had a cistern for wash water or a well for drinking water. I know a number of cisterns have been found in various basements of modern homes when they went to rebuild, even recently. There was a watering trough at Greenkill and Wilbur avenue from which we got our drinking water. Of course Water Works brought water into our homes later."

"But we had great fun in those days. In the winter time we went sleigh riding on all the hills, and our fathers and mothers would also go out in the evenings with us and have as much fun as anybody. The Ulster Sled was all-there at that time. It was a 'piped' for runners (no doubt with a wooden seat) and made right here in Sleighburgh by the Ulster Sled Co. (Well, the entire family could work up an appetite, eggs were 1 cent each, and there was free lunch with 5 cent beer!)."

He continues: "I remember when the 'City of Kingston' steamboat started for the Pacific coast. I saw her leave New York Harbor but hardly knew her, as she was so low in the water. I also knew Mr. George Lent who went with her. He was from Glascow, N. Y. Mr. Sutton concludes:

Talking about housing there was the "Long House" which used to be on Broadway just above the Orpheum Theatre. A letter received locally from an old-timer, now retired and living out west states: "As I remember, Attorney Woolsey, who had an office in the Mitchell house on Abeel street, used to 'collect' the rent. The Long House had so many apartments, it was a housing project by itself. When Mr. Woolsey would insist that a tenant move because of non-payment of rent the tenant didn't seem upset. The next month Mr. Woolsey would find that apartment empty. What about the tenant? Well, according to old-timers, the tenant was still in the Long House, having moved into an empty apartment he found at the other end of the building. I don't know if Mr. Woolsey ever caught up with his tenants who moved around like that but everyone seemed content. Who remembers that Long House which is a playground today?"

Talking to Mr. Leventhal, owner of the old Mansion House building on the corner of Broadway and the Strand where the sidewalk is being narrowed and the street widened he said, he remembers, around 1900, when that sidewalk wasn't wide enough for all the people shopping down there. In those days stores were also open until around midnight.

He remembers Mr. McMilla, who had a ship chandler store corner Strand and Highbrook avenue, and his shops blocks away on Dock street, near the bridge? He used to be, wheeled back and forth in his wheel-chair conducting both businesses to the satisfaction of his many customers.

The students submitted 111 parodies which were judged by Mrs. Anne McNeils and Miss Martha Barnett, teachers of English at Kingston High School. A ninth grade student, Arlene Semifot, won first place with her parody entitled "Subway Fever" which was based on John Masefield's "Sea Fever." Juanita Dunham, an eighth grade student, wrote the parody which won second place. This was called "My Home Town" and was patterned after "The Snake" by Emily Dickinson. The ninth grade now leads the competition with a score of 43 points.

Simple Blood Test Can Reveal Cancer

Detroit, April 18, (AP)—A blood test that can reveal cancer early, anywhere in the body, was announced Saturday by Dr. Charles B. Huggins, University of Chicago surgeon.

The test is simple, cheap, and "reasonably sure," Dr. Huggins, president of the American Association for Cancer Research, declared.

The test still is "somewhat rough," and not perfect, he said. It doesn't tell where the cancer is. Also, a positive result can mean cancer, or sickness from pneumonia, tuberculosis or meningitis.

But other tests can show whether the patient has those ailments.

The test could best be made in cancer detection clinics or other laboratories. It would take time before the methods can be installed in detection clinics.

The test is made by heating a sample of diluted blood, after a chemical, iodoacetate, is added. Normal blood will clot after a certain amount of heating. Blood from a cancerous patient takes much longer to clot.

RICHES

You are richer today than you were yesterday if you have laughed often, given something, forgiven even more, made a new friend today, or made stepping-stones of stumbling blocks.

You are richer if you have thought more in terms of "thyself" than "myself," or if you have managed to be careful even if you were weary.

You are richer if a little child has smiled at you, or a stray dog has licked your hand, or if you have looked for the best in others, and given others the best in you.

Man—Women are queer. See that one over there with the baby carriage?

Friend—Yes.
Man—Well, I was attracted by the way she was cuddling her baby. I remarked on what a grand mother she was. She glared at me, and then smacked my face.

Gipsy—So you want to know about your future husband, beautiful lady?

Visitor—No, I want to know something about the past of my present husband for future use.

Neighbor's Wife—Your wife was outspoken at the Club today.

Man—By whom?

Many a man's ambition is to be able to afford to spend what he's already spending.

Said the film actor, disappointed at not being called on to make a speech at the farewell dinner to a big movie executive before his departure for Hollywood: "What makes it worse, old man, is that I spent hours in the make-up department having a lump put in my throat."

Customer—Are these eggs strictly fresh?

Grocer—Feel those eggs, enough to sell.

Trailer Camp Planned Near Route 28 Viaduct

Plans to construct a trailer camp on Route 28, just over the Washington avenue viaduct were revealed today by A. W. Gilbert, proprietor of Gil's Garage. The camp will be known as Sunset Trailer Camp.

The former Secony service station opposite The Barn will be the site of the proposed camp, which will have a capacity of between 20 and 25 house trailers. The lot, which measures 100 by 400 feet, has been leased by Gilbert from Mark Huling.

The building which until about seven years ago was used as a gasoline station will be converted to an office and reception room for the use of tenants. All facilities, including running water and electricity, will be provided, Gilbert said. Plumbing work will be done by Alton Stoutenburg of West Hurley.

In addition to renting space and facilities to trailer owners, Gilbert will rent and sell trailers. He is dealer for the Richardson Trailer Manufacturing Company, Inc., of Elkhart, Ind. He will continue the operation of Gil's Garage, which is located across Route 28, several hundred feet from the site of the proposed trailer camp.

Robber Gets $1,900

New York, April 18 (AP)—A robber held up the offices of the Chase Club Co. in West 47th street early today and escaped with $1,900 in cash. The man poked a .45 caliber automatic pistol through the gridded front of the office and ordered the night dispatcher to hand over the money he was counting. He pushed a canvas bag toward the dispatcher, police said, and ordered "Fill it up; do what I say and everything will be all right." He took the money-filled bag and fled in an auto waiting at the curb.

Following the business session R. W. Roger H. Loughran will present to W. Samuel D. Suddon, Sr. the "60-year service palm" which is the grand lodge award for distinguished service in the craft,

They came to this country separately about 35 years ago. They met for the first time in Utica, where they were married.

Decision to open a Kurnelkorn shop was made after they noticed that this different type of candy popcorn was very popular in the Utica section but little known in the Hudson Valley.

After looking over several cities in this area, they chose Kingston. "We had a good impression of Kingston, and the longer we're here the better the impression gets," Mr. Jones said.

The couple holds a franchise from the Kurnelkorn Corporation of Glendale, which grants its dealerships to one for every 100,000 persons. In addition to the popcorn, they sell candy, ice cream and expect to add a line of nuts. Mrs. Sally Nucencio of this city is employed as a clerk in the store.

Mario M. Mentessi of North Troy Marries Eunice T. Scherer at St. Peter's Church

St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church was the setting this morning at 10 o'clock for the marriage of Miss Eunice Theresa Scherer, daughter of Mrs. Edward Scherer, 37 Adams street, to Mario Michael Mentessi, son of John Mentessi of North Troy. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Henry E. Herdegen before a Nuptial Mass. Traditional wedding music was played by Miss Anne Goldrick, organist at the church. Edward Cherny sang Ave Maria by Gounod; On This Day O Beautiful Mother, O Lord I Am Not Worthy, and O Sanctissima. The church was decorated with lilies and flowers in keeping with the Easter season.

Wendell Scherer escorted his sister. She wore a gown of sheer satin fashioned with basque waist, high round neckline with not yoke and scalloped satin bertha trimmed with seed pearls, long pointed sleeves; full skirt and train. Her three-quarter length veil was trimmed with lace and attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried white orchids.

Constance L. Winkelmann Becomes Bride Of Robert H. Matthews at Saturday Wedding

The wedding of Miss Constance L. Winkelmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Winkelmann, 115 Fairview avenue, to Robert Hermon Matthews, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Matthews, 16 Charlotte street, took place Saturday at 2:30 p. m. in the First Dutch Reformed Church. The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mr. Raymond H. Rignall was organist. Soloists were Richard Matthews, brother of the bride, groom, and David Raible. Their selections included Because, Ave Maria and The Lord's Prayer. The church was decorated with palms, lilies and white candles. The pews were marked with white satin ribbon.

Mr. Winkelmann gave his daughter in marriage. Her princess-style gown of white Chantilly lace was fashioned with an illusion neckline, and bertha; fitted bodice and full skirt terminating in a train. She also wore a matching imported French lace mantilla and carried white iris, roses and snapdragons arranged in a show bouquet.

Mrs. Charles Raible, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a white-frosted dotted marquisette gown over pale green taffeta; a matching green off-the-face bonnet; and carried a cascade of deep purple pansies.

The bridesmaids, the Misses

Patricia Keefe, Jayne Van Wagner, of this city and Helen Silworth of Stone Ridge, wore white frosted dotted marquisette gowns over daffodil yellow taffeta, and large yellow open crown picture hats. They also carried deep purple pansies.

NON-ALCOHOLIC COCKTAILS

A hostess asks: "Is it suitable to serve tomato juice or fruit juice cocktails in the living room, with canapes, when serving nothing stronger?" This would ordinarily be the first course at the meal but, as I am cook and hostess myself, having it served in the living room by my husband would mean that dinner could begin with the main course."

"Tomato and fruit juice cocktails may be served with canapes in the living room before dinner just as easily as stronger cocktails are. Even when stronger ones are served, there should be an alternate choice of something non-alcoholic."

Concerning A Wheelchair

Dear Mrs. Post: I've been in a wheelchair for 10 years and have sent regrets to all wedding invitations during this time. I assumed that they were sent to me only in courtesy. Now in looking through some picture magazines I notice at a royal wedding within the past year that one of the guests is pictured in a wheelchair. So, dear lady, my question is this: Would it be right sometimes to accept such an invitation or should something be said to me in advance, personally, to assure me that a wheelchair would be welcome?

Answer: If the wedding is that of a member of your family, or that of the son, or even more especially the daughter, of particularly dear friends, you certainly could count on being welcome. Even so, before accepting, it would be best to find out what difficulties your chair would encounter, and whether or not they can easily be surmounted.

Inquiring About Presents

Dear Mrs. Post: We know that persons should acknowledge gifts of any kind. But our problem is

IS YOUR SKIN "BREAKING OUT?"

with externally closed pimples, rashes? CUTICURA SOAP & OINTMENT not that they should, but that they haven't. We sent Christmas packages of semi-perishable gifts which have never been acknowledged. Which brings up this question: May one ever write and ask point blank if the packages were received? If so, long should one wait?

Answer: Of course you may inquire. In fact, it seems to me that such inquiries about packages sent last Christmas are long over-due.

A very successful leaflet to refer to is Mrs. Post's new leaflet, E-25, "Menus for Every Occasion." One of the numerous suggestions is light refreshments to serve visitors. # Twenty Players Brave Chilly Weather for First Colonial Drill

Lukasiuk, Third Base Holdout, Misses Workout at Stadium

Spring training started for the Kingston Colonials about 10 o'clock this morning at Municipal stadium, but with the thermometer hovering around snappy 30 degrees they could have used football mitts to greater advantage.

The 1949 Colonial League hopefuls were scheduled to work out until frostbite set in. Arctic experts said this could happen anytime between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Whatever happened to the lush "summer" weather of the month of March remained a deep mystery.

Manager Jules Lavigne's first official workout disclosed a 20-player squad. Don "Digger" Odell and Johnny Elenchuk, regular out-fielders, were expected during the day.

Lukasiuk Holdout

Principal holdouts were Manager "Red" Turner, the curve ball artist who eternally gives a promise of arriving for a big year; Lou Lukasiuk, seconded from the Poughkeepsie Chiefs in a trade for Joe Kunkel, and Danny Palmer, bespectacled third sacker. In each case there was disagreement between capital and labor on the basic matter of wages.

Manager Lavigne said he expected Lukasiuk and Turner to respond to a little prodding but displayed no great concern about Palmer's absence. The newcomer, Pete Elko, is expected to hold down third base in usually style.

Four candidates, three besides Manager Lavigne, will attempt to fill the hallowed bogans of Max Goldsmith behind the plate.

Interest in Turner

Chief interest centers around Bob Turner, the Negro outfielder of 1948, who returns as catching candidate. Turner will battle Bill Sweeney, of Brooklyn, and Glido Nibley of Hawley, N. Y.

Sweeney is a 6 foot 4 inch rookie whose only previous experience was high school and Army baseball. He is touted as a power hitter. Nibley has had minor league experience in the Georgia-Florida League.

Eight pitchers are in camp but the "Big Three" is not due to arrive until later in the week. The Big Three, of course, Francisco Sostre, Harry Putty and Danny Rourke.

The pitching hopefuls include Dave "Bobo" Chisholm, the pitcher-first baseman, who will confirm his talents to the mound this season. The baby boy is in good shape having played independently and recently taken a while against the Bushwicks.

Pitching Prospects

Briefly, the other pitching prospects are:

Dan Keegan — holdover from 1948.

Hundtton Graham — rookie, Yonkers, N. Y. Limited experience with Sunbury, Pa., in the Inter-State League, Southpaw.

Arthur White, right hander — New York city; pitched for Bradford in the Pony League, and Schenectady in Canadian-American League.

Frank Doner — right hander, Brooklyn, no previous experience.

Ray Klescher — Could be prize of the camp, a big right hander who was farmed out to Nyack of the North Atlantic League in 1948 but refused to report and pitched independent ball. Touted as a great prospect and may win starting berth.

Frank Colonell — Rookie, with no previous experience, from New York city.

Norman Sauthard — Salisbury, N. C. southpaw, pitched in Blue Ridge and Florida, International Leagues.

First Base Open

First base is still open but the remainder of the infield is set with Pete Liko at third; Ralph Mutter, shortstop; and Ed McNamara at second base.

Odell and Elenchuk will be in left and center field, with right field ready to be taken over by the best looking rookie, Paul Dunlap will not return.

Two leading outfield candidates are Gerald Murray, of Pitts, Pa., who had had previous All experience with Watertown in the Border League and Allentown; and Joseph Mercurio, a rookie from New Rochelle, N. Y., who appeared briefly with Port Chester last season.

The team will work out daily starting at 10 a.m. until the seasonal opener on May 4.

City Baseball

The City Baseball League will hold another business meeting tonight at the Y.M.C.A. at 7 o'clock. All managers, umpires and the advisory board are requested to attend. President Jack Dawkins will preside.

Navy will open its 1949 football schedule with a game at Los Angeles against Southern California on Sept. 24.

With this grip, stance and follow through, Sid Gordon manufactured extra base hits batting close to .500 in exhibition games. The Giants' third baseman opened his stance a bit to lessen the danger of hitting into double plays. He is no speed merchant, but hit 30 home runs last season to be fourth in the balloting for the National League's most valuable player.

The Shaughnessy trophy will be presented to the winners after the final.

The never-ending Y.M.C.A. basketball season draws to a close this week with the Y Basketball League Shaughnessy playoffs at the Y gym.

Chez Emile and Potter Brothers clash Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock with Wiltwyck Motors and 7th Ward meeting at 8:30.

Wiltwyck Motors will be presented with the league winning trophy and gold miniature basketballs for individual members on Tuesday night. The Chez Emile eagles will receive silver miniatures for the runnerup position.

The Shaughnessy trophy will be presented to the winners after the final.

Three young men likely to play an important part in Kingston High Schools baseball fortunes this season are the top pitching prospects shown above. In usual order, Henry Levy, holdover from 1948, Adel Kunkel, of Rosendale, and southpaw Ted Schwartz. The No. 1 role as successor to the legendary Carl Mains will go to either Levy or Schwartz. K.H.S. opens the baseball season on April 29 in Middletown, with a practice game, against Windham set for April 26.

Four Major League Teams Open 1949 Season in Preview Games

New York, April 18 (AP)—The big league baseball season opens today with prospects of a six-team jamboree in the National and a Boston-Cleveland race in the American.

Only four teams see action this afternoon in the first of the two double opening programs, but all 16 will be busy tomorrow—the first full schedule day.

President Harry Truman, an ambidextrous first ball pitcher, will be present to watch Washington tangle with the Philadelphia A's in the customary Griffith Stadium opener a day before the rest of the American League. A crowd of about 31,000 is expected.

After the President does his work, Rae Scarborough will shoulder the job of trying to pitch Washington to victory. He will be opposed by Dick Fowler of the A's.

000 probably will be tops for the nine openers. It is expected that the two-league total today and tomorrow will be about 250,000.

Tigers Expect 50,000

Detroit may match the Yankees' 50,000 when Hal Newhouser opens Chicago's Al Gettel on Randy Cumpert in Red Rolf's managerial debut.

After the Phils-Braves opener today, the National League will go into a full schedule tomorrow with the Yankees-Red Sox.

Johnny Sain, 24-game winner for the '48 champs, will oppose the veteran Ken Heitzelman at Braves Field, where the World Series ended in a Boston defeat last Oct. 11. Some 15,000 are expected.

Most of the experts and managers, too, think the Braves are in for a tough battle from Brooklyn, Pittsburgh and St. Louis but only Cincinnati and Philadelphia are counted out.

Feller to Start

Boston also gets a special opening day for its National League Champion Braves. Tomorrow is Patriot's Day in Boston. That always calls for a doubleheader. As the Braves did not want to open with a double, they received permission for an early starter with the improved Philadelphia Phils.

Manager Lou Boudreau's Cleveland Indians will lead with Bobby Feller, against the St. Louis Cardinals, and Ned Garver at Sportsman's Park tomorrow in their first game.

The Boston Red Sox, eager to get away to a better start than last year, try off the lid at Philadelphia against the Athletics. Joe Dobson of the Sox will oppose Lou Brissie.

Ed Lopat, the chunky southpaw who has a rap as a slow starter, gets the opening assignment at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow night. President Louis G. Brunh announced today.

Several important matters relating to the junior baseball program will be discussed.

DiMag to Attend Opening Game

Baltimore, April 18 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio—sore heel and all—expects to be in New York tomorrow when his Yankee mates open their 1949 baseball season.

Dr. George E. Bennett, who's been treating the $100,000-a-year outfielder at Johns Hopkins Hospital, said last night his famed patient is "doing very well."

He declined, however, to say whether X-ray treatments for calcium deposits in the right heel would be discontinued here and resumed in New York after Joe arrives there tomorrow.

After the Phils-Braves opener today, the National League will go into a full schedule tomorrow with the Yankees-Red Sox.

000 probably will be tops for the nine openers. It is expected that the two-league total today and tomorrow will be about 250,000.

Tigers Expect 50,000

Detroit may match the Yankees' 50,000 when Hal Newhouser opens Chicago's Al Gettel on Randy Cumpert in Red Rolf's managerial debut.

After the Phils-Braves opener today, the National League will go into a full schedule tomorrow with the Yankees-Red Sox.

Johnny Sain, 24-game winner for the '48 champs, will oppose the veteran Ken Heitzelman at Braves Field, where the World Series ended in a Boston defeat last Oct. 11. Some 15,000 are expected.

Most of the experts and managers, too, think the Braves are in for a tough battle from Brooklyn, Pittsburgh and St. Louis but only Cincinnati and Philadelphia are counted out.

Feller to Start

Boston also gets a special opening day for its National League Champion Braves. Tomorrow is Patriot's Day in Boston. That always calls for a doubleheader. As the Braves did not want to open with a double, they received permission for an early starter with the improved Philadelphia Phils

Stranahan Hurt On Eve of Playoff

Virginia Beach, Va., April 18 (AP)—Amateur Frank Stranahan walked with a limp today as he teed off against professional Bob Locke in an 18-hole playoff for the Cavalier Specialists golf tournament championship.

The Toledo, O., star injured his left foot in one of yesterday's rounds when he slipped and fell on a hillside. He revealed his foot was swollen last night.

Stranahan said he did not know how the injury would affect his game, but it was not regarded as serious.

Stranahan and Locke finished the regulation 54-hole tournament yesterday in 201 strokes. Six under par.

Locke Consistent

The South African pro played the most consistent role throughout the tournament. After carding a 67 Friday, he got a 68 yesterday morning. And a 66 in the afternoon. Stranahan led after the first 18 holes with a 64, slipped to a 72 in yesterday's final round, and came back with an afternoon 65.

Regardless of who is today's victor, Locke is certain to be a winner—financially. He got $1,500 for finishing first among the 19 professionals competing, and collects 50 per cent of today's gate receipts.

Second and third place money yesterday was divided by Gary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., and Jim Ferrier of San Francisco. They tied with 202s. Each collected $900. A 203 by Dick Metz, Cavalier professional, was good for fourth place money of $700. Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, of Richmond, Va., picked up $550 each after posting 205s.

Bailey's 78 Wins Wiltwyck Bogey

J. Watson Bailey fired low gross of 78 to pace the first blind bogey tournament of the season Sunday on Wiltwyck Golf Club's windswept course against a field of 38 players.

Bailey defied stiff conditions with an outgoing 38 and a 40. Low net honors went to Bill Newkirk with 77.

Other winners were Dick Davenport, Ben Cohen, Gus Modjeska, Stan Winn, Arthur Ewig, and Dr. Chester Van Gausbeck.

YES, that's the price of a 1949 Packard Eight Club Sedan. And here's why today's value-minded buyers say "wonderful!"

No other car shares the proud distinction of Packard styling... the enduring identity that has become world famous.

No other car can compare with Packard in luxurious riding comfort... because Packard's costly "self-controlling" suspension system is exclusive in the industry.

Suffoletta Conqueror Here

Although B'nai B'rith boxing fans insist there just couldn't be any such animal, Thursday night's amateur boxing card will disprove their theory.

Sammy Eicke, Brooklyn lightweight, who meets Angelo Attardo, of Boston, in one of the principal five rounds, is credited with a victory over Art Suffoletta, the St. Albans, L. I., powerhouse.

To the dismay of the boxing patrons, Suffoletta and Eicke can't renew their feud this week, but such a match will be arranged as soon as Suffoletta recovers from a hand injury. Meanwhile, Attardo, New England lightweight champion, is expected to give Eicke a lively time of it.

Another big favorite, Jim Hardy, returns to action in the five round feature against Tony Bell, New England middleweight champion.

Claims to Be Filed On Insurance for Service Fatalities

Beneficiaries of gratuitous National Service Life Insurance issued upon the lives of those killed in line of duty while serving in the armed forces between October 8, 1940, and April 20, 1942, must file claims on or before Wednesday, April 20.

Persons entitled to such insurance or to United States Government Life Insurance who died in line of duty between those dates and had not already been issued insurance in the aggregate amount of $5,000 were deemed to have applied for and been granted insurance effective the date of entrance on active duty of October 8, 1940, whichever was later. Beneficiaries of such insurance were limited by statute to the relatives most closely related to the deceased.

Applications for claims and further information is available from the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main street, or from the Veterans Administration contact office, 286 Fall street.

Four Groups Strike Against O. & W. in Demands for Boost

Newburgh, N. Y., April 18 (AP)—Eighty-eight-year-old William Schuhmann took a bride yesterday—and after the Easter Day ceremony said "I'm tired, we're going home."

The octogenarian married 68-year-old Charlotte Sandstrom, his housekeeper for the past eight years, at the Church of the Nazarene.

About 30 persons were present as the couple exchanged marriage vows.

Another dozen arrived later to attend a church reception.

The strike, threatened for some time by the unions, became effective at 6 a. m. It was called to enforce employee demands for a 10-cent hourly wage increase included in a contract last fall.

Gebhardt said about 400 employees are involved in the walkout. He added that he had no further details immediately.

The strike was authorized by national headquarters of the brotherhoods—Engineers, Firemen and Engleman, Trainmen and Conductors.

The earlier hauls freight between New York state and Pennsylvania points.

Gebhardt claimed court backing in refusing demands of the four unions.

Shrewd Handling Makes This Bid

BY WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

Detroit, April 18 (AP)—A new drug finds and hits an Achilles heel of cancers in mice, stopping the growth of the cancers.

It seems to do it by fooling the cancer cells into thinking the drug is something they need in order to grow. If they use the new substitute, they don't grow.

The drug apparently affects only cancer cells, thus hitting at a weak spot. For normal healthy cells don't need this same chemical in their diet, and thus don't take the substitute either.

This discovery is one of the bright new findings about cancer, offering the hope of one way of controlling it. It was announced Sunday to the American Association for Cancer Research by Dr. George W. Kidder, associate professor of biology at Amherst College.

The drug succeeded in halting or slowing down cancer growths in mice, he said. It is not yet known whether it will work in humans. It isn't ready to be tried now. More work must be done on animals, Dr. Kidder said. And maybe a better drug can be found through the same kind of work that led to this one.

The drug is named Guanazolo. It is just slightly different from another chemical, Guanine, that the cancer cells in mice apparently need to grow and multiply. If they get the Guanazolo, their growth apparently is blocked.

Method of Testing

Dr. Kidder injected the drug into mice suffering from three kinds of cancer. Each time the cancers stopped growing while the drug was being given. They started growing again when the injections were stopped. The same kind of cancers in other mice, not treated by the drug, kept growing all the time. The tests were made on breast cancers, transplanted breast cancers, and a form of louse leukemia, a blood disease.

Eleven years ago Dr. Kidder and associates began studying tiny one-celled animals, protozoa called tetrahymena. They learned exactly what these animals need in foodstuffs in order to produce the vital chemicals necessary for their growth and multiplication. Guanine is one of these necessary things. Guanazolo stopped their growth. It was made expressly for this purpose.

Eleven years ago Dr. Kidder and associates began studying tiny one-celled animals, protozoa called tetrahymena. They learned exactly what these animals need in foodstuffs in order to produce

His co-workers are Drs. Virginia G. Dewey and Robert E. Parks, Jr., of Amherst and Dr. Gilbert L.

Woodside, zoologist at the University of Massachusetts. Dr. George H. Hitchings of the Wellcome Research Laboratories, Tuckahoe, N. Y., supplied the bulk of the chemicals. Funds for the work came from the Research Corporation, New York, and American Cancer Society.

Three Instructors Appeal to Pope

Boston, April 18 (AP)—Three lay Catholic instructors, dismissed by Boston College for accusing the Jesuit School of heresy, have appealed their ousters to Pope Pius XII a second time.

James R. Walsh said yesterday he and the other two teachers had made the second appeal to the Pope "because we were led to believe Fr. Kelcher (The Rev. William L. Kelcher, S.J., president of Boston College) was acting in concert with the local church authorities."

Vatican City sources reported after the first appeal that jurisdiction in the controversy is in the hands of the Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, archbishop of Boston. "We could not conceive of Father Kelcher taking it upon himself" and summarily firing us without consulting His Excellency, the archbishop," Walsh said.

Walsh, a philosophy instructor, and Ang Fukhui Matui, assistant professor of philosophy, and Charles Ewasko, assistant professor of physics, were discharged last week by Fr. Kelcher for speaking "on matter contrary to the traditional teachings of the Catholic church."

A fourth lay instructor, David D. Supple, said he had been discharged from Boston College High School. However, a school spokesman said last Thursday he had not been "dismissed at the moment." There has been no further comment.

The instructors accused Boston College of heresy by teaching students: (1) there may be salvation outside the Catholic church; (2) a man may be saved without admitting to the Roman Catholic church to be supreme among all churches; and (3) a man may be saved without submission to the Pope.

Fr. Kelcher said in discharging the three men at Boston College that "their doctrine is erroneous and as such could not be tolerated."

Large Restaurant Burns at Clifton

Clifton, N. J., April 18 (AP)—Flames which broke out while 50 diners were eating destroyed the two-story Howard Johnson restaurant here.

Waitress May Lesko of Rutherford carried out a baby strapped to a high chair.

The fire broke out at 9:30 o'clock last night and swept through the building until 3:30 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Dorothy Miller, working her first night as cashier, scooped all the money from the cash register and carried it safely outside but left her new Easter coat in the building.

All guests and employees escaped unharmed.

Easter traffic on the busy highway was rerouted for two hours when police feared escaping illuminating gas might explode.
